

National award for MAHCP member Kyle Eckhardt

One of our own was recently honoured with an award from the Canadian Medical and Biological Engineering Society.

Kyle Eckhardt, an MAHCP members who works as a Regional Clinical Engineer, received in June the Society's Early Career Achievement Award, which recognizes young biomedical/clinical engineering professionals "who have demonstrated outstanding performance and achievement in the early stages of their career," according to the cmbes.ca website. This past April, Kyle was one of two MAHCP members who made presentations to the Manitoba Health Minister.

From all of us at MAHCP, congratulations Kyle!
